Walker Departs As County Auditor/Treasurer As Blackmail Probe Hits

By Mark Gutglueck

Unexpectedly, San Bernardino County Auditor-Controller Larry Walker has announced he is retiring in March.

Walker's decision has thrown the auditor-controller's division into turmoil, as there are suggestions that there is more to his exodus than meets the eye.

At issue is who will

Larry Walker

be chosen to replace Walker, as reports drift

in suggesting his exodus is being forced as a consequence of his grooming of his logical heir apparent, Matt Brown, the office's second-in-command.

Rumors abound that Walker is leaving because federal and state investigators are closely scrutinizing his decision six years ago to cashier his longtime loyal assistant, Betsy Starbuck, who had been with

Walker through thick and thin in his many years with the county, both as Fourth District county supervisor and in his role as auditor-controller, and instead promote Brown, whose role in laundering campaign contributions on behalf of, to, from and between a whole host of political figures, some of whom have See P 2

County Transportation Agency Quietly Pushing Toll Lanes On I-10 & 1-15

San Bernardino County's Transportation Agency is stealthily militating to create toll lanes along Interstate-10, and Interstate-15 at a cost of over $15 billion.

The near secrecy in which those entrusted to oversee the use of tax money for maintaining and improving local road and highway infrastructure is a byproduct of the public sentiment against the toll road concept as well as the voter-approved road improvement funding charter by which a major portion of county road improvements are carried out.

Though a handful of the transportation agency's board members share with a substantial number of their constituents opposition to paying to use local freeways, a majority of that board's members have concluded that toll money will need to be a component of the funding mechanism needed to widen two of San Bernardino County's four major freeways. While quietly pushing the project ahead, there has been little in the way of publicity about what will eventually cost over $1.5 million. Notably, most of the disclosure of the effort has come when the alternate representatives to SANBAG, the county's transportation agency, attended those board meetings.

SANBAG is an acronym for San Bernardino Associated Governments. As San Bernardino County's primary transportation agency, SANBAG has a 29-member board consisting of all five county supervisors plus a representative of each of the county's 24 incorporated cities. A consensus among SANBAG's board members, based upon population increase projections, traffic pattern studies and consultants' input, is that at least one and more See P 6

California Supreme Court Turns Back Move To Resurrect Colonies Conspiracy Charges

The California Supreme Court on January 20 slammed the door on prosecutors' attempt to extend the statute of limitations on a conspiracy charge that is the legal linchpin to the Colonies Lawsuit Settlement Public Corruption Prosecution. In 2011, a combination of prosecutors from the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office and the California Attorney General's Office persuaded a grand jury to return an indictment against Rancho Cucamonga-based developer Jeff Burum, former San Bernardino County Second District Supervisor Paul Biane, Mark Kirk, the one-time chief of staff to then-Fourth District Supervisor Gary Ovitt, and Jim Erwin, who had been the president of the county sheriff's deputies' labor union and later assistant assessor under former San Bernardino County Assessor Bill Postmus.

The indictment alleged that the four were involved in a conspiracy involving extortion, bribery, misappropriation of public funds, perjury, fraud, graft and corruption with regard to a November 2006 vote by the board of supervisors to confer a $102 million settlement on

Hamilton Gets 15 Years-To-Life In Santana Hotel Room Stabbing Murder

Kameron Hamilton, whose brutal murder of a prostitute in a Redlands motel in 2012 both horrified and perplexed even the most hardened of homicide investigators, last week was sentenced to 15 years to life for the heinous act.

Hamilton, once of Rialto and now 27-years-old, was convicted October 30 of the May 2012 stabbing death of Priscilla Santana at the Good Nite Inn in Redlands. Priscilla Santana, 29 at the time of her death, of Hemet, was stabbed 59 times, including in the back and skull. Hamilton was adjudged to be guilty of second degree murder and use of a knife in the commission of that offense. On May 30, 2012, Redlands police officers Sean Flynn and Breanna Herrera were dispatched to the motel at 1675 Industrial Park Avenue in response to a disturbance call after the manager of the motel was told by a maid that someone was getting beat up in room 240. When Flynn and Herrera arrived at the motel, they were told by the manager that he had entered the room next to Room 240 and heard four to five thuds coming from the other side of the wall. When the police officers knocked on the door of Room 240, there was no response. After a second round of knocking, a pass key was used to open the door. An interior chain kept the door from opening completely. After defeating the interior chain, the officers encountered Hamilton, who attempted to flee. Hamilton, then 24, was tackled and subdued and there- See P 13

Apple Valley Water System To Cost Town At Least $100 Million

APPLE VALLEY—It is looking increasingly unlikely that the Town of Apple Valley will be able to secure ownership of the Apple Valley Ranchos Water Company for anything less than $100 million.

Last week, Liberty Utilities, an American subsidiary of Canadian-owned Algonquin Power and Utility Corporation, finalized its acquisition of Apple Valley Ranchos by consummating the purchase of Park Water Company from the Carlisle Group.

In 2011, the Carlisle Group, an American multinational private equity and asset management corporation, acquired from the Wheeler Family at a cost of $102.2 million the Park Water Company, which in addition to its water holdings in Compton, Downey and Bellflower in Los Angeles County and Apple Valley, also owned the Mountain Water Company, based in Missoula, Montana.

The Carlisle Group packaged the water companies serving Missoula, Bellflower, Compton, Downey, Missoula and Apple Valley together as what it called Western Water Holdings and put them on the market. Last summer, it arranged for Apple Valley Ranchos to acquire, for $300,000, the water system, which serves some 900 residents in the desert community of Yermo, which lies roughly 36 miles from Apple Valley.

Two years ago, the Town of Apple Valley, alarmed at the prospect that the water company serving the community's 69,135 See P 3 been convicted or indicted on political corruption charges, was widely recognized in county political services at that time. Dual federal and state probes now have Brown's activity under a microscope.

Walker, whose father had been a high ranking official with the Chino Valley Unified School District, embarked on what would prove to be a highly successful political career in 1978, when at the age of 27 he was elected to the Chino City Council. Two years later, due in part to the strength of his family name and his performance as a councilman, he was elected Chino mayor. In 1986 he vied against Fourth District Supervisor Gus Scropos, who, like Walker was himself an up and coming young attorney who hailed from Ontario, rather than Chino, and had been appointed by the board of supervisors to replace Robert O. Townsend. Walker defeated Scropos, who would subsequently make his own deep political mark as Ontario mayor, deputy district attorney, superior court judge and municipal prosecutor.

Upon Walker's departure as Chino mayor, he was succeeded by Fred Aguiar, who had been elected to the Chino City Council while Walker was on that panel. Indeed, for three decades beginning in the 1960s, the Chino City Council served as a fertile breeding ground for politicians who flourished at the state and county level. Those included Aguiar, who would serve in the California Assembly from 1992 to 1998; Walker; and before them, Ruben Ayala, who after serving as Chino Mayor served as Fourth District county supervisor and then 24 years in Sacramento in the State Senate.

Walker at the time of his election to the board of supervisors represented, with Jon Mikels, the new generation of political leadership in the county, as they were one, two and three decades younger than their board colleagues and those they had replaced. Walker held the further distinction of being the lone Democrat on the board of supervisors, with San Bernardino County at that time being one of the most heavily secure GOP bastions in the state.

Gravitating to Walker was another young Democrat professional, Betsy Starbuck, a political operative who went to work on his staff. In time, she would rise to become his chief of staff. She was instrumental, as well, in guiding Walker's political fortunes. Starbuck served in both 1990 and 1994 either as the official or de facto manager of Walker's reelection campaigns. And in 1998, she was at his side when he successfully vied for county auditor/controller/recorder/clerk to replace Errol J. Mackzum. Starbuck subsequently became assistant auditor/controller/recorder/clerk, Walker's second-in-command. Over the years she acquired a mastery of all or nearly all of the office's functions. There were grounds to believe, though there was no explicit agreement or arrangement, that Starbuck was being groomed as Walker's eventual replacement as auditor/controller.

In 2010, as Walker was approaching his third reelection campaign for auditor/controller/recorder/clerk, Prior to the 2010 election, the county moved to consolidate the treasurer-tax collector position with that of the auditor-controller, moving the recorder and county clerk's functions into the assessor's office, which is also an independently elected post. The board appointed Walker to replace former treasurer-tax collector Dick Larsen, whose position was eliminated as a consequence of the reorganization. That same year, the auditor/controller's office was also hit with an internal shake-up. In one fell swoop, Starbuck was out, replaced with Matt Brown, who for more than seven years had been chief of staff to Paul Biane, the Second District county supervisor since 2002.

Brown's transition into the auditor/controller/treasurer/tax collector's office was a problematic one. More than a year previously, investigators with the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office had uncovered evidence that he had been using political action committees he had set up and controlled, in particular the San Bernardino County Young Republicans and the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association, to launder campaign contributions to a number of candidates, campaigns and individuals. In this way, Brown facilitated obscuring, masking or in some other fashion hiding where money originated and where it was actually spent or diverted. In some cases the money passed through this process was a contribution from an earnest donor intended for a legitimate political cause. In other cases the money was intended as a bribe, a quid pro quo provided to a politician in exchange for a vote or action that benefited the provider of the money.

Brown, understanding that political action committees serve as legitimate collecting enti-residents and its businesses was about to be purchased by a Canadian company, challenged the proposed sale by means of a complaint to the California Public Utilities Commission. Town officials enunciated concern that the joint application left open questions as to how Algonquin/Liberty would balance out the proposed $327 million purchase price for Park Water without subsequently imposing substantial increases in the rates Apple Valley residents and businesses would pay for their water, particularly given that Algonquin/Liberty would need to assume at least $77 million of existing long-term debt tied into Park's assets. A year ago, the California Office of Ratepayer Advocates entered its own protest with regard to the application, citing a succession of issues which were counter to the public interest.

Apple Valley's move was somewhat late. Shortly after the town's 1988 incorporation, its maiden town council spurned the Wheelers' offer to sell the town the Apple Valley Ranchos Water Company for $2.5 million. Town officials at that time were concerned less about the initial expense of acquiring the utility than with the projected ongoing and constant costs of having to repair, upgrade and maintain the system, which was created in 1945 by Newt Bass and B.J. Westlund as an adjunct to their real estate company, Apple Valley Ranchos, their undertaking to develop Apple Valley after they acquired 6,500 acres from the Southern Pacific Railroad for $2.50 per acre. Bass and Westlund installed the minimum amount of infrastructure to support the construction of subdivisions and make the community grow, anticipating that as Apple Valley matured, that infrastructure would be replaced by higher quality pipes, reservoirs, pumping units and appurtenances. It would turn out, however, as the town was built piecemeal, the water company merely expanded with it, a hodgepodge of water mains and lines built one after the other, patched together in correspondence to the new development it was called upon to serve.

In 2011, the same year that the Carlisle Group purchased Park Water, the town of Apple Valley impaneled a so-called blue ribbon committee to consider acquiring Apple Valley Ranchos. Again, however, the town failed to pull the trigger when the committee advised against the acquisition. Prevailing sentiment abruptly changed less than three years later, however, when Park, after beginning to implement in 2012 rate increases on Apple Valley Ranchos customers totaling 19 percent and then completing $8.1 million in capital improvements to the Apple Valley Ranchos Water Company in 2014, instituted another 30 percent rate hike on Apple Valley Ranchos customers to be implemented from 2015 until 2017. Shortly thereafter, town officials began trading notes with Missoula city officials, where Park Water's Mountain Water Company had likewise escalated rates. Subsequently, the city of Missoula utilized its power of eminent domain to condemn and seek to acquire Mountain Water Company from Park Water Company. Mountain Water fought the takeover, but when the matter went to trial before Judge Karen Townsend in April 2015 it resulted in Townsend on June 15 entering a judgment in favor of Missoula. Even before Missoula prevailed in that case, town of Apple Valley officials began angling to take Apple Valley Ranchos away from Park Water Company, banking on a strategy that included blocking Algonquin/Liberty's acquisition through its protest to the California Public Utility Commission, and then achieving either an amenable or forced purchase of Apple Valley Ranchos through a financing strategy involving issuing bonds to create the capital to make the purchase. The town calculated it would be able to service the bonded indebtedness and carry out improvements to the water system by means of the payments made to the city by water users/customers, i.e., the town's residents. The town's officials maintain that the revenue from the water sales will be dedicated solely to this bonded debt service and water division operations and maintenance and can be effectuated without any water rate increases. That scenario was highly dependent upon Park Water's willingness to sell the Apple Valley Ranchos water system lock, stock and barrel for a price of the town's choosing, i.e., around $50 million. In support of this, the town, obtained from what it referred to as "an independent appraisal firm" the rather wishful "fair purchase price" of $45.54 million.

That strategy, however, ran aground when the California Public Utilities Commission's entered a ruling that the sale to Liberty could proceed. Though the PUC's action did not rule out the possibility that Apple Valley might acquire Apple Valley Ranchos from Liberty by means of the eminent domain process or otherwise, Liberty's willingness to pay what the market bears for Park's collective water assets is a strong indication that the Town of Apple Valley's notion that it will be able to acquire Apple Valley Ranchos for anything near the $45.54 million the town's "independent" appraiser previously said it is worth or the $50.3 million offer recently tendered by the town in informal discussions with Park is entirely unrealistic.

In Montana, local water commissioners last June set the fair market price of the Mountain Water Company, which owns and operates 37 mostly shallow and medium-depth wells, at $88.6 million, pursuant to the eminent domain

Three contractors are bidding to fix a broken fence at the White House. One is from Chicago, another is from Tennessee, and the third is from Minnesota. All three go with a White House official to examine the fence. The Minnesota contractor takes out a tape measure and does some measuring, then works some figures with a pencil. "Well," he says, "I figure the job will run about $900. $400 for materials, $400 for my crew, and $100 profit for me." The Tennessee contractor also does some measuring and figuring, then says, "I can do this job for $700. $300 for materials, $300 for my crew, and $100 profit for me." The Chicago contractor doesn't measure or figure, but leans over to the White House official and whispers, "$2,700." The official, incredulous, says, "You didn't even measure like the other guys! How did you come up with such a high figure?" The Chicago contractor whispers back, "$1000 for me, $1000 for you, and we hire the guy from Tennessee to fix the fence." "Done!" replies the government official.

ties for people of a given political mindset to pool their money and effectively vector it to a cause in which they collectively believe, also recognized that a political action committee can be used more nefariously, allowing a candidate to receive money from an individual or entity with an unsavory reputation or record, who or which, if directly connected to the candidate, might hurt his or her electability. His political action committees were used in this fashion, in violation of state reporting laws. Even more seriously, the political action committees he controlled, or at least some of them, were utilized to brazenly convert donations into cash that simply went into someone's pocket or personal bank account.

Brown became known as the "King of the San Bernardino County PACs," creating at least four such entities. In addition to the San Bernardino County Young Republicans, which he initiated in 2006, he created one for use exclusively in the City of Grand Terrace, where he resided, and one exclusively for politicians in the City of Colton. On March 17, 2008, Brown formed the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC and named J.M. Olchawa as the PAC's treasurer. Olchawa, like Brown was a resident of Grand Terrace. Olchawa endowed the San Bernardino County Taxpayers PAC with its first operating capital in the form of a $100 contribution. Less than a month later, on April 9, 2008, the San Bernardino County Young Republicans PAC contributed $40,000. to the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC. The following month, on May 29, 2008, a political action committee controlled by county assessor Bill Postmus, the Inland Empire PAC, infused the San Bernardino County Taxpayers PAC with $3,000 and the month after that, on June 2, 2008, with another $2,000. In the less than two month period between the $40,000 contribution from Brown's own Young Republicans PAC on April 9, 2008 and Postmus' Inland Empire PAC's $2,000 donation on June 2, 2008, the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC received a substantial amount of money in the form of both contributions and loans, all from other political figures. On April 25, 2008, the Committee to Elect Paul Biane gave the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC a $15,000 contribution. On April 29, 2008 the Committee to Elect Dick Larsen provided the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC with a $10,000 loan. Larsen was then the county treasurer. On May 5, 2008 the Committee to Elect Gary C. Ovitt made a $15,000 contribution to Brown's San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC. On May 9, 2008, the Josie Gonzales for Supervisor campaign provided a $15,000 contribution to the San Bernardino County Taxpayers PAC. On May 16, 2008, Bill Emmerson for Assembly 2008 made a $5,000 contribution to Brown's recently formed PAC. The same day, the San Bernardino Public Employees Association PAC provided Brown's San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC with a $10,000 contribution. On May 23, 2008, the Committee to Elect Gary C. Ovitt provided Brown's PAC with a $10,000 loan. On May 27, 2008, the Hansberger for Supervisor Committee made a $25,000 contribution to the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC. The next day, May 28, the Paul Cook for Assembly 2008 Committee provided Brown's PAC with a $5,000 loan. The same day, the Committee to Elect Paul Biane made a $10,000 loan to Brown's PAC. On May 29, Bill Emmerson for Assembly 2008 made a $5,000 contribution to the PAC and on June 2, 2008, the Hansberger for Supervisor Committee made a $15,000 contribution to the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC. The lion's share of the money Brown's PAC took in was used to fund Hansberger's effort to be reelected as county Third District supervisor that year. According to campaign disclosure documents, the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC on May 18 provided the Hansberger for Supervisor Committee with $57,030.70 and on June 30, 2008, more than three weeks after Hansberger had lost the election to Neil Derry on June 3, Brown's PAC gave the Hansberger for Supervisor Committee $100,920.29.

By 2009, investigators with the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office had taken notice of the incestuous relationships among the political action committees of several San Bernardino County politicians. In particular, investigators were zeroing in on political action committees under the control of Brown and Biane; Postmus; Mark Kirk, who was the chief of staff to supervisor Gary Ovitt; and Jim Erwin, a former San Bernardino County sheriff's deputy who had been the president of the deputies union, the Safety Employees Benefit Association (SEBA), who in 2007 was hired by Postmus to serve as assistant assessor. Based upon the district attorney's investigators' findings, prosecutors would later allege that $400,000 in the form of separate $100,000 contributions made to the political action committees controlled by Biane/Brown, Postmus, Kirk and Erwin were in fact bribes. Those bribes had been paid, prosecutors alleged in a 2010 criminal filing and in a superseding indictment handed down in 2011, in return for a vote made in November 2006 to confer upon the Colonies Partners a $102 million payment to settle a lawsuit that company had brought against the County of San Bernardino and its flood control district over drainage issues at the Colonies at San Antonio residential and Colonies Crossroads commercial subdivision in northeastern Upland. In a 3-2 vote, Postmus, who was then chairman of the board of supervisors, Biane and Ovitt supported the $102 million settlement and supervisors Josie Gonzales and Dennis Hansberger opposed it.

Of particular interest to investigators and prosecutors was that on April 9, 2008, just 23 days after Brown had formed the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC on March 17, 2008, it received its first substantial infusion of operating capital from San Bernardino County Young Republicans PAC in the form of a $40,000 contribution. That $40,000 had apparently originated with the $100,000 contribution from the Colonies Partners the previous year, the same $100,000 subsequently categorized as a bribe.

In the spring of 2009 district attorney's investigators Hollis Randles, Schyler Beaty and Robert Schreiber confronted both Kirk and Brown, aggressively questioning them with regard to action they had taken on behalf of Ovitt and Biane, suggesting the PACs they had set up had been used to launder kickbacks. Kirk initially responded to some of the questions but became increasingly reluctant to continue, and resisted efforts to wring from him statements implicating Ovitt. He insisted that the interrogation be brought to a close and refused to make any further statements outside the presence of an attorney. When the investigators isolated Brown, they subjected him to accusations that he had acted illegally on Biane's behalf as well as in tandem with him in a criminal conspiracy. Panicked, Brown acceded to cooperating with the district attorney's office. Of immediate interest to Schreiber, Beaty and Randles was the San Bernardino County Young Republicans and San Bernardino County Taxpayers PAC. Campaign finance records show that the San Bernardino County Young Republicans PAC became a political force to be reckoned with after the $100,000 check from Colonies Partners was

Glimpse Of SBC's Past

Richard Harrison Garland

By Mark Gutglueck

One of the several colorful founders of Redlands was Richard Harrison Garland.

Garland was one of the members of the Chicago association that founded the original colony properly regarded historically as the beginning of the modern city of Redlands.

His life began and for some time proceeded far away from California. He was born in Zanesville, Ohio on July 22, 1842. His father, Andrew Garland, was a stone mason by trade who superintended the building of Fort Sumter in Charleston Harbor, the capture of which was the first open act of hostility at the beginning of the Civil war. His son, Richard Harrison, was a soldier of some valor in that war, by his efforts helping restore the Union sundered by the fall of Fort Sumter. Sometime after his son's birth, Andrew Garland moved from Zanesville to Mount Vernon, Ohio, and was a farmer and stock raiser there until his death in 1873.

Richard Harrison Garland grew up in Ohio, and at the beginning of the Civil War enlisted in Company A of the Sixty-fifth Ohio Infantry. He participated, as a member of General William Tecumseh Sherman's brigade, in the battles of Shiloh, Corinth, Perryville, Stone River, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, and at Missionary Ridge his brigade captured the batteries in front of General Bragg's headquarters and turned the guns on the enemy. Wounded in battle and partially disabled, at least temporarily, young Garland was assigned to the Eastern Army, in the Quartermaster's Corps. At the close of the war he remained in the service of the army department in the Freedman's Bureau and agency of the Treasury Department, and engaged in disbursing claims and distributing supplies and establishing free schools for the liberated slaves in the South. Later he was transferred to the Pacific Coast with the staff of General Thomas, and was present at the death of that great leader at San Francisco.

He returned to civilian life in 1870, and took a course of study in one of the educational institutions of San Francisco. At that point, he relocated to Chicago, where he became a manufacturer of art furniture and interior decorations, finding further professional engagement in the supervision of building details, for a number of years.

In 1872 Garland married Miss Margaret McGovern, a native of New Haven, Connecticut who as a child moved with her parents to Chicago in 1864. She was the fifth in a family of nine children. Her brother John served throughout the Civil war and was killed at Atlanta by a sharpshooter at the very close of the war.

In 1886 a consortium from Chicago formed an association and planned the founding of a town and community in Southern California. Mr. Garland was one of the most active promoters of this project.

An investigating committee was sent out and selected 440 acres, divided among the forty members of the association. Seventeen acres was set aside as a townsite and is now the central downtown section of Redlands. Mr.

Garland came to Redlands in 1886, and began the development of his mence improvements in East Redlands. He was placed in charge of the East Redlands Water Company's plant, by F. E. Brown, until its completion, and was president of this company for several years. He subsequently was involved in the development of his tract of some thirty acres situated on Citrus Avenue in East Redlands as an orange plantation. He also received his lot on the townsite on West State Street. He deeded this to his wife, and seven months later she sold it for $1,400. The original cost was $25. During the twelve active years he spent in Redlands, he converted a sage brush tract into a profitable plantation. He leveled the land and filled up the ditches, installed irrigation, and by his planting started the development which grew into what was once one of the most visually appealing spots in Redlands. The home he constructed was erected from materials he transported by team and wagon from San Bernardino, there being no railroad to Redlands at that time.

Garland was elected to the board of trustees of the city, which was the initial incarnation of the Redlands City Council. His approach to public service was toward bettering his community and he did not perceive politics as a source of personal honor. He was also a director of the Redlands Chamber of Commerce from the time of its inception. He was a staunch Republican and a Scottish Rite Mason.

On May 27, 1898, as it must to all men, death came to Richard Harrison Garland. He was a little less than two months shy of his 56th birthday.

In their book published in 1922, "The History of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties," John Brown, Jr. and James Boyd said of Garland, "His death removed one of the strongest and best men from local citizenship. He did the work of a pioneer, work that continues cumulative benefit to all subsequent generations."

His death created a burden on his widow. With Richard, Mrs. Garland had three children, living, a daughter then attending the state university at Berkeley and a son and daughter in the Union High School. Her husband's passing came in the midst of water shortages, creating a crisis for orange growers. Mrs. Garland, through the strength of her character, courageously met these tribulations head on, and by her personal resources and prudence and foresight maintained the Garland orchard under difficulty, sustaining its beauty and productivity. According to Brown and Boyd, "She fulfilled every obligation scrupulously, and succeeded in rearing her children and was, moreover, a kind neighbor and loyal friend, so that many outside her family circle had reason to be grateful for her numerous acts of generosity and kindness."

Mrs. Garland died October 27, 1918, at Redlands. She retained her vigor to old age and it was said that "her appearance was that of a woman many years her junior."

deposited into its account in June 2007. The criminal charges filed in 2010 and the 2011 indictment allege that the series of $100,000 donations to the political action committees founded and controlled by Postmus, Brown, Kirk and Erwin were in fact quid pro quos – bribes – paid in exchange for the approval of the settlement.

Brown, who at that point was still Biane's chief of staff and had his boss's full confidence, at the district attorney's office's behest agreed to wear a wire, i.e., a surreptitious audio recording device, in an attempt to capture utterances by Biane that would implicate him in bribe taking. That effort continued for nearly a year, apparently ending in failure in the spring of 2010. At that point, with much fanfare, Brown, who was still Biane's chief of staff, departed from that position on stress leave and filed a claim against the county, alleging Biane was retaliating against him. In the claim, Brown disclosed that he had been cooperating in the district attorney's office's investigation of Biane. Biane, who had been the best man at Brown's wedding and still considered Brown a trusted and close friend, was completely and utterly taken aback by the claim. He had no inkling, he said, that his chief of staff was working as an informant against him. More to the point, Biane was that year standing for reelection. The publicity about the matter rebounded to his political disadvantage and after placing second in the June primary, he ultimately lost to his most successful challenger, Fontana councilwoman Janice Rutherford. It was in the months prior to the June 2010 primary election, at the apparent direction of county executive officer Greg Devereaux, that Walker brought Brown into his office as his second-in-command, making him assistant county auditor-controller, despite his lack of experience or expertise with regard to the duties of the office. In doing so, Walker forced

Four years later, in 2014, Walker again sought reelection, this time to the auditor/controller/treasurer/tax collector post. At that time, he spoke about the strides he had previously made "to improve and evolve the organization and improve customer service. We are developing systems of accountability and improving the electronic systems so we can provide better service and reduce costs." He spoke in terms of being "excited about... the things we are doing to make that service available to the likely two and perhaps as many as three new lanes will be needed to prevent traffic gridlock along the 33-mile stretch of the I-10 at the Claremont/Montclair border to Redlands. But there is not adequate funding available to build even one new lane, the cost of which has been pegged at $55 million in today's dollars, let alone three. Similar usage increases are anticipated on the I-15 Freeway, which passes through San Bernardino County beginning at the Riverside County/Eastvale City Limit border with the county and runs north. The I-15 meets up with the I-215 Freeway, which in San Bernardino County runs from the Riverside County/Riverside City Limits border near the county line/Grand Terrace City Limits.

These projects must be funded with available public dollars. Other undertakings, many of them approved as long as a decade or more ago, have taken a place in line ahead of those lane additions.

Highland mayor Larry McCallon, Rancho Cucamonga mayor L. Dennis Michael, Barstow Mayor Julie McIntyre, Big Bear councilman Bill Jahn, Upland mayor Ray Musser, Chino mayor Dennis Yates, Victorville Councilman Ryan McEachron, Chino Hills Councilman Ed Graham, Yucaipa councilman Dick Riddell, Yucca Valley Councilman George Huntington, Hesperia councilman Mike Leonard, Needles mayor Edward Paget and Ontario councilman Alan Wapner all have supported constructing the toll roads.

Former Adelanto councilwoman Cari Thomas, former Rialto

councilman Ed Scott, former Apple Valley Town councilman Rick Roelle, former San Bernardino mayor Patrick Morris, former Twenty-nine Palms councilman Jim Harris, and former San Bernardino County supervisors Neil Derry, Brad Mitzelfelt and Gary Ovitt also supported the toll road idea. They have all been voted out of office or left voluntarily. Former Redlands mayor Pete Aguilar was also a supporter. He is now a congressman. The concept has been opposed by San Bernardino County Supervisor Josie Gonzales, San Bernardino County Supervisor Janice Rutherford, Montclair Mayor Paul Eaton, Loma Linda Mayor Rhodes Rigsby, former Grand Terrace Mayor Walt Stanckiewicz, Fontana Councilman Michael Tahan and Colton Councilwoman Deirdre Bennett.

SANBAG has not publicized the toll road concept. The most comprehensive explication of the undertaking is in a document completed and filed in January 2012 titled the "Measure I 2010-2040 Ten Year Delivery Plan." In that document, the toll lanes are not referred to as "toll lanes" but rather as HOT lanes. One must go to an "acronym list" at the back of the document to learn that HOT stands for "High-Occupancy Toll." The definition explains that "HOT lanes are HOV (i.e. high occupancy vehicle or car pool) lanes that also allow vehicles not meeting minimum occupancy requirements to use the lane by paying a toll."

Under the project description of the "I-15 HOT Lanes," the Measure I 2010-2040 Ten Year Delivery Plan document states, "This project will start at the north terminus of the Riverside County Transportation Commission's proposed Express Lane Project at SR 60 and end at the Devore interchange. The conceptual design includes the addition a HOT lane and auxiliary lane in each direction from the SR-60 to the I-10, and the addition of two HOT lanes in each direction from I-10 to south of Devore Interchange. Initial conceptual engineering has been completed but the Project Study Report has not yet been initiated."

According to that document, SANBAG intends to spend $349,219,000 in Measure I money on the I-10 toll lane project, which includes $10,549,000 for project approval and environmental documentation, $48,409,000 for plans, specifications and estimates and $283,686,000 for construction. Further funding will come from Regional Transportation Improvement Plan set-asides and Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality program funds. SANBAG also intends to spend $187,689,000 on the I-15 toll road project, which includes $21,497,000 for project approval and environmental documentation, $32,242,000 for plans, specifications and estimates and $128,261,000 on construction with further funding coming from Regional Transportation Improvement Plan set-asides and Congestion Mitigation and Air Quality program funds

Measure I, which called for a half-cent per dollar sales tax to be collected throughout San Bernardino County for transportation improvements, was passed by county voters in 1989.

In this way, county residents will be contributing tax money toward a program to construct a toll road.

SANBAG was drawn into examining the toll road concept by the consideration that Orange County already has toll lanes in place and a larger system of toll confiscation process of that entity successfully achieved by the City of Missoula through Judge Townsend's court. Missoula, with 69,821 residents, is comparable in population size to Apple Valley.

In Los Angeles County, Park Water supplies between five and six percent of Compton's water supply by means of the four wells it operates there, while purchasing somewhere between 92 and 94 percent of the water delivered to Compton from the Central Basin Municipal Water District which wholesales potable water from the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California. In Bellflower and Downey, Park Water supplies about 15 percent of the supply to those two cities with water drawn from the groundwater basin through its eight wells there, while purchasing roughly 81 percent through the Central Basin Municipal Water District.

In addition, the Golden State Water Company also serves the communities of Compton, Downey and Bellflower.

By contrast, the Apple Valley Ranchos Water company operates 24 deep wells throughout Apple Valley and three wells in Yermo.

Though there are other methods of calculating the value of a water purveyor than the sheer number of wells, in using that yardstick, it appears that Apple Valley Ranchos 24-well operation in Apple Valley entails one third of Algonquin's Western Water Holdings 72-well inventory of water-producing assets. With Algonquin having just paid $327 million for Western Water Holdings, it stands to reason any judge hearing the eminent domain case will accept that Apple Valley Ranchos is valued at $109 million. And while Apple Valley officials are pinning some of their hopes on the City of Missoula challenging, the sale to Algonquin, that action will not change the valuation of the water assets already determined by Judge Townsend.

SUMMONS (CITACION JUDICIAL)

CIVDS1515753
Notice to defendants (Aviso al demandado):

STEPHEN LYNNE AND DOES 1-25

You are being sued by plaintiff (Lo est demandando el demandante):

CYRUS CHU

NOTICE! You have been sued. The court may decide against you without your being heard unless you respond within 30 days. Read the information below.

You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. If you cannot pay the filing fee ask the court clerk for a fee waiver form. If you do not file your response on time, you may lose the case by default, and your wages, money, and property may be taken without further warning from the court.

There are other legal requirements. You may want to call an attorney right away. If you do not know an attorney, you may want to call an attorney referral service. If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association. NOTE: The court has a statutory lien for waived fees and costs on any settlement or arbitration award of $10,000 or more in a civil case. The court's lien must be paid before the court will dismiss the case.

¡AVISO! Lo han demandado. Si no responde dentro de 30 días, la corte puede decidir en su contra sin escuchar su versión. Lea la información a continuación.

Public Notices

Tiene 30 DIAS DE CAL- ENDARIO después de que le entreguen esta citación y papeles legales para presentar una respuesta por escrito en esta corte y hacer que se entregue una copia al demandante. Una carta o una llamada telefónica no lo protegen. Su respuesta por escrito tiene que estar en formato legal correcto si desea que procesen su caso en la corte. Es posible que haya un formulario que usted pueda usar para su respuesta. Puede encontrar estos formularios de la corte y mas información en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California (www.sucorte.ca.gov), en la biblioteca de leyes de su condado o en la corte que le queda mas cerca. Si no puede pagar la cuota de presentación, pida al secretario de la corte que le dé un formulario de exención de pago de cuotas. Si no presenta su respuesta a tiempo, puede perder el caso por incumplimiento y la corte le podrá quitar su sueldo, dinero y bienes sin más advertencia.

Hay otros requisitos legales. Es recomendable que llame a un abogado inmediatamente. Si no conoce a un abogado, puede llamar a un servicio de remisión a abogados. Si no puede pagar a un abogado, es posible que cumpla con los requisitos para obtener servicios legales gratuitos de un programa de servicios legales sin fines de lucro. Puede encontrar estos grupos sin fines de lucro en el sitio web de California Legal Services, (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California, (www.sucorte.ca.gov) o poniéndose en contacto con la corte o el colegio de abogados locales. AVISO: Por ley, la corte tiene derecho a reclamar las cuotas y los costos exentos por imponer un gravamen sobre cualquier recuperación de $10,000 ó más de valor recibida mediante un acuerdo o una concesión de arbitraje en un caso de derecho civil. Tiene que pagar el gravamen de la corte antes de que la corte pueda desear el caso. The name and address of the court is: (El nombre y dirección de la corte es):

A first grade teacher in the Midwest is explaining to her class that she is a Republican and how nice it is that a new Republican president has taken office. She asks her students to raise their hands if they, too, are Republicans and support George Bush. Everyone in class raises their hands except one little girl. "Mary," says the teacher with surprise, "why didn't you raise your hand?" Because "I'm not a Republican," says Mary. "Well, what are you?" asks the teacher. "I'm a Democrat and proud of it," replies the little girl. The teacher cannot believe her ears. "My goodness, Mary, why are you a Democrat?" she asks. "Well, my momma and papa are Democrats, so I'm a Democrat, too." "Well," says the teacher in an annoyed tone, "that's no reason for you to be a Democrat. You don't always have to be like your parents. What if your momma was a criminal and your papa was a criminal, too, what would you be then?" Mary smiled. "Then we'd be Republicans."

Q. If Nancy Pelosi and Obama were on a boat in the middle of the ocean and it started to sink, who would be saved?

To which the man replied, "Some said they weren't, but you know how politicians lie..."

Declaration of Independence Reply
The Court of King George III
London, England

July 10, 1776

c/o The Continental Congress

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Jefferson:

We have read your "Declaration of Independence" with great interest. Certainly, it represents a considerable undertaking, and many of your statements do merit serious consideration. Unfortunately, the Declaration as a whole fails to meet recently adopted specifications for proposals to the Crown, so we must return the document to you for further refinement. The questions which follow might assist you in your process of revision:

1. In your opening paragraph you use the phrase "the Laws of Nature and Nature's God." What are these laws? In what way are they the criteria on which you base your central arguments? Please document with citations from the recent literature.

2. In the same paragraph you refer to the "opinions of mankind." Whose polling data are you using? Without specific evidence, it seems to us the "opinions of mankind" are a matter of opinion.

3. You hold certain truths to be "self-evident." Could you please elaborate. If they are as evident as you claim then it should not be difficult for you to locate the appropriate supporting statistics.

4. "Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" seem to be the goals of your proposal. These are not measurable goals. If you were to say that "among these is the ability to sustain an average life expectancy in six of the 13 colonies of at last 55 years, and to enable newspapers in the colonies to print news without outside interference, and to raise the average income of the colonists by 10 percent in the next 10 years," these could be measurable goals. Please clarify.

5. You state that "Whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new Government..." Have you weighed this assertion against all the alternatives? What are the trade-off considerations?

6. Your description of the existing situation is quite extensive. Such a long list of grievances should precede the statement of goals, not follow it. Your problem statement needs improvement.

7. Your strategy for achieving your goal is not developed at all. You state that the colonies "ought to be Free and Independent States," and that they are "Absolved from All Allegiance to the British Crown." Who or what must change to achieve this objective? In what way must they change? What specific steps will you take to overcome the resistance? How long will it take? We have found that a little foresight in these areas helps to prevent careless errors later on. How cost-effective are your strategies?

8. Who among the list of signatories will be responsible for implementing your strategy? Who conceived it? Who provided the theoretical research? Who will constitute the advisory committee? Please submit an organization chart and vitas of the principal investigators.

9. You must include an evaluation design. We have been requiring this since Queen Anne's War.

10. What impact will your problem have? Your failure to include any assessment of this inspires little confidence in the long-range prospects of your undertaking.

11. Please submit a PERT diagram, an activity chart, itemized budget, and manpower utilization matrix.

We hope that these comments prove useful in revising your "Declaration of Independence." We welcome the submission of your revised proposal. Our due date for unsolicited proposals is July 31, 1776. Ten copies with original signatures will be required.

Sincerely,

Management Analyst to the British Crown

Burum was, with Dan Richards, one of the two managing principals in the Colonies Partners. The board of supervisors voted 3-2 to make that settlement,, with Bill Postmus, who was then chairman of the board just prior to leaving that post to become county assessor, and Biane and Ovitt prevailing over then-supervisor Dennis Hansberger and supervisor Josie Gonzales, who opposed the settlement.

Prosecutors alleged, and the Grand Jury accepted, that Burum, working with Erwin, first extorted Postmus and Biane and then bribed them with $100,000 contributions made to political action committees they fully or partially controlled to upon handcuffed. At that point, a bloody knife, which fell from a bag Hamilton was carrying when he was tackled, was seen by the officers. There would be testimony at trial that Hamilton had purchased the knife, described as a large butcher knife, earlier that day. Also in the bag Hamilton carried was a wallet that identified the victim. Santana was found in the room lying face down in a pool of blood and suffering from multiple stab wounds. Redlands homicide detective Andy Capps stated that there were too many stab wounds on Santana's body to count. Santana was pronounced dead at the scene. According to the San Bernardino County Sheriff-Coroner, Santana was stabbed somewhere in the neighborhood of 50 times and had more than 15 wounds to the top of her head and the rest on her neck and back. She had defensive wounds on her left hand and had a stab wound that penetrated her heart and hit an artery.

According to testimony, Hamilton arranged the meeting with Santana and then put his two toddlers to bed for a nap before driving to the motel, where he agreed upon a price for Santana's services. According to deputy district attorney Melissa Rodriguez, who prosecuted Hamilton, "At some point during the date, there was a dispute and the defendant demanded his money back. During the dispute, the knife was produced and was eventually used on the victim."

That narrative was problematic, as it did not fit, precisely, with Hamilton's pre-arranged purchase of the knife.

Investigators were baffled by the case, not with regard to finding the perpetrator but in assessing a motive for his action. Deputy public defender Eric Loftman elicited from his client testimony that it was Santana who first produced the knife, which she used to cut him on the arm before he took it away from her. Previously, when Hamilton was represented by attorney Nolan King, he suggested that it was her pimp who had engaged in the mayhem. There have been reports, never fully verified, that two individuals, Gregory Wayne Atkins and Andres Mancina-Meja, may have been running a group of prostitutes who regularly hooked up with their customers at the Good Nite Inn. During the trial, Rodriguez introduced evidence that Santana was working as a prostitute out of the motel.

Judge William Jefferson Powell on January 12 sentenced Hamilton to state prison for a total indeterminate sentence of 15 years to life with one year credit for time served.

San Bernardino County Coroner Reports

Coroner Case #701600514 On Sunday, January 17, 2016, at 2:40 AM, California Highway Patrol personnel were sent to the area of Interstate 15 and Cleghorn Road, Devore, for the report of a single vehicle traffic accident. Upon arrival, they found a 2001 Chevrolet Tahoe occupied by two Hispanic females were traveling southbound on Interstate 15, when, for unknown reasons, the vehicle left the roadway and came to rest on Cleghorn Road. The passenger of the vehicle was declared dead on scene by San Bernardino County Fire Department personnel at 4:17 AM. The driver of the vehicle was taken a local hospital. The name of the passenger is withheld pending a positive identification and family notification. The California Highway Patrol is investigating the incident. [01172016 1905 SC]

Coroner case 701600502 On Friday, January 15, 2016, at 7:20 AM, a white Ford Focus traveling along the southbound State Highway 71, when it collided with a school bus just south of Pine Ave. There were no children aboard the bus, but the driver of the Focus, Brandon Joseph Tabita, a 28 year old resident of Corona (Riverside County), sustained major head injuries. Tabita was transported to Arrowhead Regional Medical Center, where he underwent surgery. Today, Saturday, January 16th, with family in attendance, Tabita was pronounced dead. The collision is under investigation by the California Highway Patrol. [01172016 1905 SC]

Coroner case #701600446 On January 15, 2016 at approximately 1:10 P.M. the remains of a female subject were uncovered in a clandestine grave in the 8200 block of Reseda Ave. in Fontana. At 8:29 P.M. identification of the remains were confirmed to be that of Alejandra Carrion Gutierrez.

public and I am now asking the voters to keep me in that position.”

That he has now chosen, less than two years into his current four-year term, to depart has raised troubling questions. The timing of his announcement, given that the FBI and the California Attorney General have stepped up their parallel inquiries into political money laundering activity in San Bernardino County and into reports of extortion being employed by the county's more powerful political figures against other county officials, seemingly implicates Walker in a blackmail scheme. That investigation remains viable because the statute of limitations that might otherwise apply to the matter has been extended because there is no indication in any available documentation showing any of the $35,000 in loans made to the San Bernardino County Taxpayers Association PAC by the Larsen, Ovitt, Cook and Biane campaign committees were ever forgiven, repaid or properly retired. Those loans are thus still outstanding.

It is against this backdrop of extortion, blackmail and financial misfeasance and malfeasance that the mystery of Walker's abrupt departure is playing out. Walker never satisfactorily explained why he had fired the experienced and qualified Starbuck in 2010 and replaced her with Brown, who had no expertise or experience in running the operations of the controller's office. When queried on the matter over the last five-and-a-half years, Walker would engage only in non-answers, saying simply that he had confidence in Brown.

For more than five years, Walker and Starbuck, who were once so close and major luminaries in the San Bernardino County Democratic Party, have not spoken with one another. Walker has never provided Starbuck with an explanation of why he jettisoned her in favor of an unqualified Republican political operative.

With state and federal investigators now returning to the matter of Brown's money laundering activity, those investigators appear to be on the brink of lurching ever closer to the answers to the mystery that for over half of a decade have eluded the public.

Brown's money laundering efforts were far more sophisticated, far more involved, far more convoluted and far more egregious than those of Kirk, who set up only one political action committee and moved only a fraction of the money through it than did Brown in those he operated. Why then did

Fred Aguiar

District Attorney Mike Ramos and Attorney General Kamala Harris indict Kirk, but leave Brown out of it?

Part of the answer seems to lie in the depth of Brown's involvement with and continuing access to the San Bernardino County political establishment as well as an effort on the part of the San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office to prevent information relating to his activity from reaching the California Attorney General's Office. It appears that Brown's boss and protector for the last five years, Walker, is being forced from office just as questions about why he choose to put Brown, widely known and recognized in San Bernardino County as a money launderer, near the pinnacle of the treasurer's office, the controller's office, the tax collector's office and the auditor's office. Walker's decision cannot stand up to the scrutiny now being vectored toward it.

A logical inference is that Walker was himself acceding to blackmail in hiring Brown. If indeed Walker was being blackmailed, over what issue and by whom are yet unanswered questions. Answers to those questions may be soon forthcoming and Walker's exodus at this point, while he can depart on his own terms with some semblance of dignity, might explain why he is leaving now.

Proceeding from this point forward is the question of who Walker's replacement will be. Based upon the county charter, that decision falls to the members of the board of supervisors, who must appoint a replacement rather than have the county hold a special election.

There are now five obvious possibilities: Brown, who currently holds the title of assistant auditor/controller/treasurer/tax collector; Oscar Valdez, the executive finance officer for the treasurer-tax collector, who previously was the chief deputy controller in the auditor-controller division; Starbuck; Fred Aguiar, Walker's previous successor as Chino mayor and Fourth District county supervisor; and Ensen Mason, who vied against Walker in the 2010 and 2014 election.

Brown's candidacy for the selection is supported, of course, by his current position as second-in-command. He retains the status, stature and credibility of being an assistant county department head. Nevertheless, his selection would require that the board of supervisors overlook entirely his questionable history, the political fund laundering he engaged in and his betrayal of erstwhile best friend, professional sponsor and closest political associate Biane, not to mention the specter of his involvement in the extortion activity now under scrutiny by the FBI and California Attorney General's Office. Buffeted by scandal after scandal as the county has been over the last two decades, the supervisors may not want to embrace Brown at this point and move him into the most sensitive financial position in the county government's structure. Brown further lacks licensing as a certified public accountant. He overcomes that shortcoming, however, by having served as a senior administrative position in the auditor/controller/treasurer/tax collector's office for "a approve the settlement. According to prosecutors and the indictment, Kirk was provided with a similar bribe in the form of a $100,000 contribution to his political action committee to influence Ovitt to support the settlement.

That vote took place in late 2006 and the series of contributions occurred in 2007.

The indictment did not come until 2011, more than three years after most of the overt acts outlined in the conspiracy charges.

Though Postmus pleaded guilty to 14 charges of political corruption, bribery, conspiracy, conflict of interest, perjury and fraud stemming from a previous case involving the Colonies lawsuit settlement vote lodged against him in 2010 and had turned state's evidence in the case against Burum, Biane, Kirk and Erwin, the four defendants all pleaded not guilty and have steadfastly maintained their innocence in the face of the continuing case. While the indictment served to bind them over for trial, they are under the rule of law still considered innocent until proven guilty by a means of a trial before a jury of their peers.

In earlier legal sparring prior to the case going to trial, defense attorneys sought the dismissal of the charges against the defendants. In the summer of 2014, the judge hearing the case, Michael Smith, dismissed the conspiracy charge on statute of limitations grounds, rejecting the prosecution's theory that a four-year rather than a three-year deadline on bringing a conspiracy charge involving governmental officials should apply.

The prosecution appealed that to the Fourth District Appellate Court, which rejected it. That decision was then appealed to the California Supreme Court. On January 20, the Supreme Court denied the petition by prosecutors to reverse the lower courts.

The conspiracy charge lies at the heart of the case, upon which the primary narrative pro-

The Western patch-nosed snake is a nonvenomous colubrid snake which is native to the Mojave Desert.

Also known by its scientific name, Salvadora hexalepis, this species is endemic to the southwestern United States and northern Mexico, being found in Arizona, Southern California, Nevada, Southern New Mexico, and Southwestern Texas, as well as in the Mexican states of Baja California, Baja California Sur, Chihuahua, Sinaloa, and Sonora.

Adults of Salvadora hexalepis are, on average, 20-46 inches in total length; the record total length is 58 inches.

They have a distinctive, thick scale curved back over the top of the snout, and free at the edges. All subspecies are yellowish with blackish lateral stripes in various arrangements. Slender, these snakes are tan or cream colored, with two wide, dark brown or pounded by prosecutors is hinged, including 43 overt acts. This conspiracy allegation represents the gravitas of the case, in particular that pertaining to Burum, considered the key defendant in the entire matter black, irregular-edged stripes on the back. The stripes are often marked with light flecks or mottling. The sides of the body and the middle of the back between the dark stripes are tan, peach, or straw yellow. An additional thin, dark stripe lines each side of the body on the seam between the third and fourth scale rows, counting up from the belly. The belly is usually pale cream and is often tinted with pink or peach. The scale on the snout is enlarged, triangular, and protrudes on the sides. The eyes are large, the pupils are round, and the scales are smooth. The irregular-edges and mottling of this snakes dorsal stripes and its additional side-stripes distinguish it from the similar looking Eastern Patch-nosed Snake which has solid, straight-edged dorsal stripes and usually lacks side-stripes. The following four subspecies are recognized: Salvadora hexalepis hexalepis, Salvadora hexalepis klauberi, Salvadora hexalepis mojavensis, and Salvadora hexalepis virgultea.

The dorsal scales are smooth, and the anal plate is divided.

Alert and fast moving, the western patch-nosed snake is terrestrial and diurnal, hibernating during the cold months of late fall and winter. They have been found every month of the year except January. This species is often found basking or active later and earlier in the year than other snakes.

It is primarily a ground-dweller but it occasionally climbs into shrubs. It actively forages for lizards, mice and other rodents and small mammals, reptile eggs, and birds. It uses its enlarged snout scale to unearth reptile eggs and other buried prey. Mating takes place in spring and a clutch of up to 12 eggs, most usually between four to ten, is laid in late spring or summer. Hatchlings begin to emerge in July and August, and occasionally as late as September. Females may not reproduce every year. Hatchlings resemble adults but are 8.5 inches 10.5 inches m total length.

roads that would include San Bernardino County, Riverside County, Los Angeles County and Orange County freeways is being pushed by regional transportation officials, who insist that for the entire system to work there must be uniform participation. There is resistance to the concept, however. On the Atlantic Seaboard and in the Midwest, toll roads are referred to as turnpikes, not freeways. In California, freeways have historically been maintained by the state and federal government through taxes, not toll charges. Upland City Glenn Bozar, who normally does not attend SANBAG meetings but is Upland's alternate representative on that panel, recently attended a SANBAG meeting in the place of Upland Mayor Ray Musser. In a statement at the most recent Upland City Council meeting, Bozar remarked upon his alarm at learning that the project is moving ahead with very little scrutiny by the public.

A Facebook page, "Toll Free IE," with the URL address <https://www.facebook.com/toll-free> freee, has been created. "This page is committed to halting the creation of toll roads in the Inland Empire, specifically on the 10 from Pomona to Redlands and on the 15," its description reads. Spontaneously, a movement to vote out of office any county or city officials supporting the toll lane concept in San Bernardino County has formed.

California Style Changes

By Grace Bernal

It's a new year full of sadness with the passing of many creative musicians. I am still stunned by Bowie's passing because he really was the beginning of change for many generations. And because of chameleons such as he the young men of today are open to anything along with the many changes of fashion. Young men today really have kept up with their daring fashion looks. Take pink, for example.

Everyone is wearing it, even men, be it coats, shirts, and shorts. Fashion really isn't a male or female thing but a bit like something else. The creative forces are in full bloom this new year and it's all about free expression. Keep daring and keep expressing because this is what life is about.

Until next week keep the changes coming!

"Turn and face the strain."
— David Bowie

continuous period of not less than three years," as stipulated in California Government Code sections 26945 and 27000.7.

Valdez represents a safer choice, but he too lacks CPA licensure, though, like Brown, he meets the criteria of having served more than three years as a senior member of the office. He lacks, as well, political reach and contacts, which may or may not recommend him in the minds of the board members.

Starbuck has a comprehensive knowledge of the auditor-controller's function, but departed just as that office was consolidated with that of the treasurer-tax collector. She has been out of the loop for nearly six years, and is not a certified public accountant, though claiming nearly 12 years experience in a senior position in the auditor/controller's office. She does, however, have significant political entrée with James Ramos, the chairman of the board of supervisors. Both are Democrats and Starbuck served as his campaign manager dur-

Asked if she was willing to return to her previous haunts and succeed Walker as auditor/controller/treasurer/tax collector, Starbuck told the Sentinel, "I'd have to really think about it. It's been five years since I retired and I'm really enjoying myself. It would mean getting back into the rat race. I wouldn't rule it out."

Aguiar, who was chairman of the board of supervisors, was cabinet secretary, deputy chief of staff and senior adviser to Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger. He is not a certified public accountant. This month he was hired by vice chairman of the board of supervisors Robert Lovin-good to serve as senior policy adviser in the county's First District. His selection would require a declaration of overriding considerations serving to make a waiver of California Government Code sections 26945 and 27000.7.

Mason has consistently put himself forth as a political alternative to Walker and can claim to have received more votes to put him into the auditor/controller/treasurer/tax collector post from San Bernardino County residents in the last two election cycles than anyone else other than Walker. Mason is a certified public accountant.

On January 20, the board of supervisors voted 5-0 to appoint an ad hoc committee, consisting of Ramos and Lovin-good, to make a recommendation to the full board on Walker's replacement. The board is seeking applications for the position from qualified individuals and has given them until January 29 to lodge those applications with the clerk of the board.
